

THE FERRY BOAT SONG

Remember the scene on the ferry crossing
Steaming through the drunken night
There was laughter and song
As the waves were tossing
As we sailed into the Northern Lights
If we had known then
We'd be none the wiser
Would we feel our dreams were lost
In that rolling green sea
As our hopes were rising
No-one stopped to count the cost
I tell you my friend
It's so surprising
I've seen better days
I was thinking of old times
The other morning
Those days when we were
Heaven bound
When we could make sense
Of the silent warnings
And knew they weren't just
Surface sounds
If we had known then
We'd be none the wiser
Would we feel our dreams were lost
In that rolling green sea
As our hopes were rising
No-one stopped to count the cost
I tell you my friend
It's so surprising
I've seen better days
